Additional information about cookies and tracking technologies is available here.

The information we collect through cookies and other means (such as web beacons, pixel tags and embedded links) is not personal information and does not individually identify you. It includes things like:

- the domain name and IP address from which you accessed our Site
- the type of browser and operating system you use
- the date and time and length of your visit
- the specific page visited, graphics viewed and any documents downloaded
- the specific links to other sites you accessed from our Site
- the specific links from other sites you used to access our Site

Mobile devices are the one possible exception to the rule that our passive, automatic collection activities exclude personal information. We say that because if you access our site from a phone or other mobile device, the mobile services provider may transmit to us uniquely identifiable mobile device information which allows us to then collect mobile phone numbers and associate them with the mobile device identification information. Some mobile phone service providers also operate systems that pinpoint the physical location of devices and we may receive this information as well.

Regardless, we use both automatically collected non-personal information and mobile device information only to compile generic reports about popular pages on our Site, and to see how our customers and followers are accessing our Site or using the Service. We then use that data to administer the Site, fulfill your requests, send materials to you, inform you of offers, make your activities more convenient and efficient, to enhance the functionality of our Site and the Services, such as by remembering certain of your information thereby saving you time and for other purposes permitted by law.
